

The Position

Iowa State University invites applications for a tenure-track position in Organizational Communication at the rank of Assistant Professor. Candidates should have a teaching and research emphasis in organizational communication with secondary interest and expertise to support teaching in any of the following: communication theory, proposal and grant writing, communication research methods, small group communication, workplace communication, intercultural communication, or interpersonal communication. Primary teaching responsibilities are in the interdisciplinary Communication Studies major with supplemental responsibilities in the English Department's MA and PhD programs such as Rhetoric and Professional Communication. Beginning 2/2 teaching load.

For more information about the position and application procedures, please visit the iastatejobs.com website; search for vacancy # 111009 or follow this link:

www.iastatejobs.com/applicants/Central?quickFind=80811

If you have questions regarding this vacancy, please contact the chair of the search committee, Dr. Amy Slagell, aslagell@iastate.edu. Materials should be submitted by November 30, 2011 to ensure consideration. Iowa State University is an Affirmative Action, Equal Opportunity Employer.

The Program

Communication Studies, an interdisciplinary program at Iowa State University, brings together faculty with PhDs in Communication Studies, Social Psychology, Language and Information Technologies, and Adult Education, working together in a dynamic program that has been designated as a "destination major" in the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences. Home to nearly 300 majors, our communication studies program is built upon a social science/liberal arts approach to the study of human communication with a focus on theory and research within the interpersonal, small group, organizational, and cultural contexts. For a description of the major and Communication Studies curriculum, visit the Iowa State University Catalog website:

<http://catalog.iastate.edu/collegeofliberalartsandsciences/communicationstudies/>

The University

Iowa State is an international, prestigious university with a friendly welcoming personality. More than 28,000 students choose from 100 majors, study with world-class scholars and hone their leadership skills in more than 800 student organizations. Iowa State offers a great environment where students can enjoy reaching their potential and discovering their passions. It's a culturally diverse student body with students from all 50 states and more than 110 countries.